

NOTICE

Effective: February 1, 2005

Barrels containing Fire Residue will NOT be accepted at any DSWA Facility

- Under Delaware law, it is illegal to burn trash in barrels.
- Fire residue from legal burning must be quenched and delivered in a non-metallic container.
- Empty barrels may be delivered. Both ends must be removed, or the barrel cut in half.
- If customers arrive on site with a container that has been used to burn material and still contains residue, the customer must not deposit the material or container.
